DETAILED ACTION

Status of the Claims

1. Claims 17-20 were previously pending in this application. Claims 17-20 were canceled, and claims 21-26 were newly added in the reply filed March 29, 2010. Therefore claims 21-26 are currently pending and subject to a restriction requirement found below.

Election/Restrictions

2. Restriction is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 and 372.

This application contains the following inventions or groups of inventions which are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

In accordance with 37 CFR 1.499, applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single invention to which the claims must be restricted.

Group I, claim(s) claims 21, 23, and 25, drawn to a method, system and device of processing postal items in which an image is formed of each item in a sorting machine, the image including address information, and on the basis of the image of the item and a reference address base, OCR is used to perform automatic recognition of the destination address information, and in which when said destination address for a current mail item is not recognized unambiguously, said method comprises: detecting several possible ambiguous delivery points from results of said recognition processing for said current mail item...detecting if said delivery points are included in a single delivery round...and, in response to said detection, computing a volume mail data for delivery range of said delivery round and comparing said volume mail data to a threshold value.

Group II, claim(s) 22, 24, and 26, drawn to a method, system, and device of processing postal items in which an image is formed of each item in a sorting machine, the image including address information, and on the basis of the image of the item and a reference address base, OCR is used to perform automatic recognition of the destination address information, and in which when said destination address for a current mail item is not recognized, unambiguously, said method comprises: identifying a first and a second possible delivery point from results of said recognition processing for said current mail item...computing several cumulated extra cost values of destination error from said delivery points, and; identifying a smallest extra cost cumulated value among the computer cumulated extra cost values and comparing said smallest cumulated extra cost value to a threshold value

3. The inventions listed as Groups I and II do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, they lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons: They are lacking a single inventive concept. Group II computes extra cost values of destination error in the situation where the mail item is sent to the wrong address and then identifies the smallest extra cost cumulated value among the computer values, then compares it to a threshold value. Although Groups I and II are both designed to process postal items that have been imaged through OCR and then routed by the claimed methods in the situation where the destination address of the mail item cannot be recognized, groups I and II perform that process in unrelated ways. Each of Group I and Group II have different inventive concepts which are appropriate for restriction under the lack of unity of invention standard required by a national stage application under 35 U.S.C. §371.

4. A telephone call was made to Mr. David Cushing on April 30, 2010 to request an oral election to the above restriction requirement, but did not result in an election being made.

5. Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a species or invention to be examined even though the requirement may be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected invention.

The election of an invention or species may be made with or without traverse. To preserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse. Traversal must be presented at the time of election in order to be considered timely. Failure to timely traverse the requirement will result in the loss of right to petition under 37 CFR 1.144. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which of these claims are readable on the elected invention or species.

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the inventions have unity of invention (37 CFR 1.475(a)), applicant must provide reasons in support thereof. Applicant may submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the inventions to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. Where such evidence or admission is provided by applicant, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other invention.
